TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I have been using Buildercost since 1998 when it was the original DOS. Version. It has become the main management tool for my entire business. I am now using the new Windows Version that has been updated with every feature I require for the current building climate.

The program, having been designed by a builder, covers all aspects of building with an extensive database for estimating on which you can expand, as well as Invoicing, Subcontracts & WPHS documentation.

With this program I am able to produce accurate detailed estimates with professional quotations & supporting documentation.

I would recommend this software package as the ideal operating system for any building company.
